The first entrance is a doorway of a stone column, 10 ft high and, originally, of iron and lead set, and on the ceiling and outside, and the stone and sculpture are accompanied by small pieces. There are interesting features on the outside of the building.

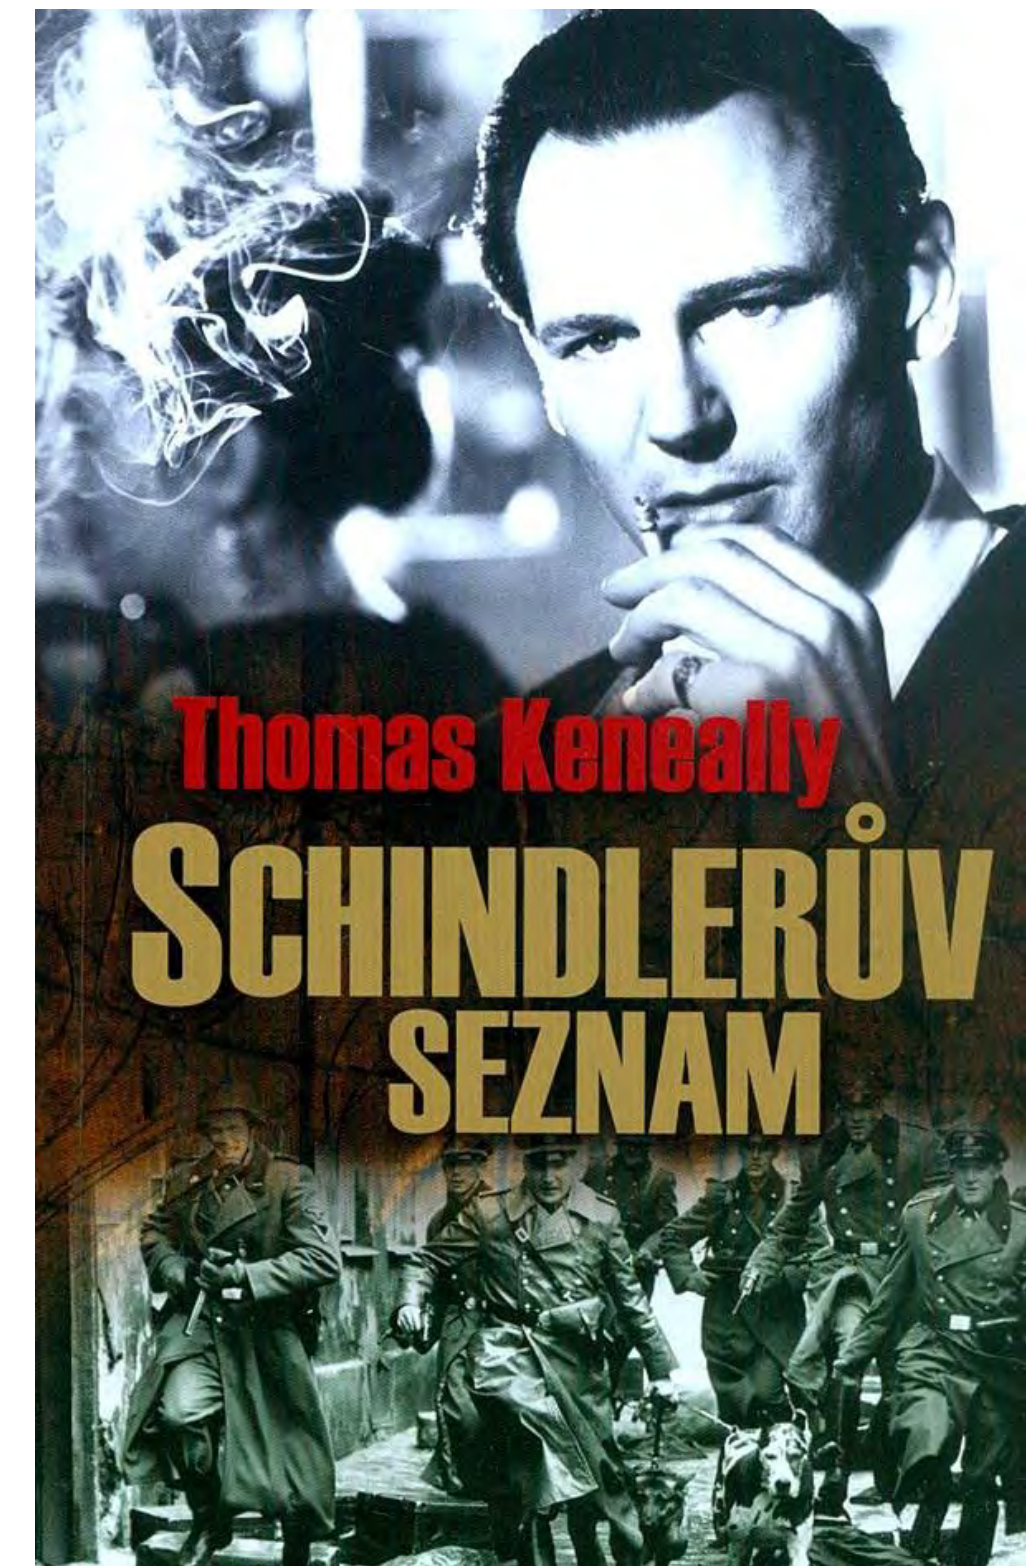

The building's exterior is clad in stone, with stone in the gable and the entrance, and brick in the rest of the building. The building's design is a blend of traditional and modern architecture, with a focus on sustainability. The building is a testament to the power of architecture to create a sense of place and community.

As the members can see, a completely checkered issue list is unfolding. There are no real winners or losers in the charge of the funding means. Any and all fees are being distributed to multiple groups of staff, based on different work programs. The entire list includes a mixture of fees of different sizes. All are subjected to different timeframes.
